SecPod Company Profile

SecPod is an information security technology company offering security content as a service to product, consulting vendors and enterprises. With its unique business model focused on technology partnership, SecPod is providing high quality security content (threat detection modules) to leading security product vendors and enterprises.

Vendors and enterprises today face challenges in order to keep their products and solutions up to date with 'Security Content' to combat the dynamic nature of ever increasing threats. With number of threats growing each day and new type of threats surfacing every now and then, it is really important to keep the scanners updated with the modules to detect and quarantine threats as soon as they surface or remediate the affected systems. This requires time and effort, building and hosting highly skilled research team, setting up the necessary infrastructure to validate. Dealing with False Positives and False Negatives has always been the pain point in the industry.

Additionally, coverage is needed for all the older threats which seldom go out of fashion.

Threat Management Landscape is changing. Automated vulnerability management and policy compliance, configuration management and patch management is the current need. Interoperability between different security products is no longer a nice to have feature but a must have in order to have holistic view of organizational security. Applications such as Continuous Security Monitoring demand automated threat management. Security Content automation will be the differentiator in the near term and a default feature in the long term.

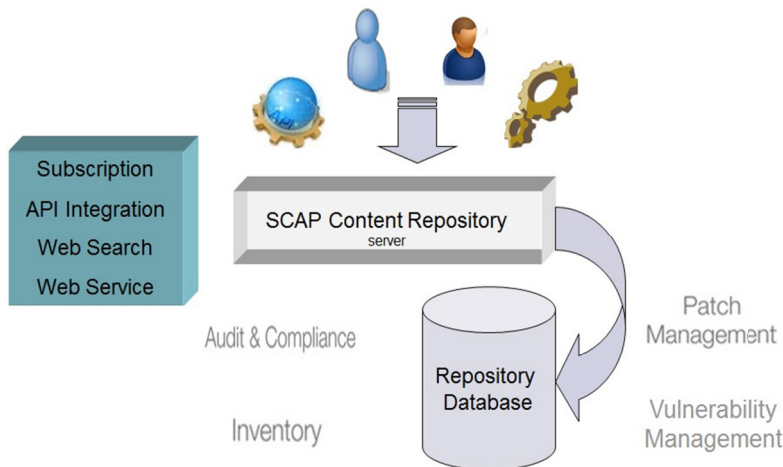

There are multiple standards emerging to meet this changing landscape.

SecPod SCAP Content Repository hosts professional quality standardized content for vulnerability, patch, inventory and compliance management.
